TO THE HOUSE OWNERS OF BOMBAY.—Gentlemen,—Our Canvasser Mr. MUNCHERJEE FRAMJEE informs me, that many of your Tenants wish to be supplied with GAS, but are prevented from having their Houses fitted with GAS PIPES in consequence of your being AFRAID of FIRE. To THO. PROUD, Esq., Manager, Bombay Gas Works.

DEAR SIR,—In reply to your inquiry as to whether Buildings lighted by Gas are considered more hazardous than those lighted by Oil and Candle, I beg to inform you that it is generally understood at Home, that Insurance Companys for Insurance purposes give the preference to Buildings lighted by Gas, and experience has shown that more Fires occur at Home through using Candle and Oil Lights than result from the use of Gas for ordinary lighting purposes.—I am, dear Sir, Yours faithfully, (Sd.) J. L. NAPIER HAY, Secretary in India.

FREIGHTS.

OWING to the intervention of the Hooli-holidays there has been little business in progress during the past week.

We have no fresh transactions of importance to report, but there is a firm feeling apparent in the market ; and as clearances are likely to continue on an extensive scale for some weeks, we look for considerable activity in freight and some advance in rates shortly.

We quote :

For London.. { Cotton ... £2 5 0 to £2 10 0
{ Seeds. ... £1 15 0 to £2 0 0
For Liverpool { Cotton ... £2 15 6 to £3 2 6

London.—The Venillia is almost loaded. There is a fair quantity of miscellaneous cargo offering at our quotations.

Liverpool.—Ready ships have been in good enquiry and our last quotations are fully maintained.

The few vessels that are available are firmly held by consignees for higher rates.

Of those now loading on the berth for Liverpool upwards of twenty (about 25,000 tons register) will clear within the next ten days.

Havre.—The Star of the North, Eudora and City Canton are loading.

In country employment there is little doing.

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, MARCH 25, 1867.

IT is very natural that the people of this Presidency should feel no small degree of anxiety as to the possible consequences of the proposed absorption of the Bank of Bombay by the Bank of Bengal. As our correspondent Q. frankly puts it, the amour propre of Bombay, which has survived so much else that was better worth preservation, is grievously wounded by the bare suggestion that we must invoke the aid of Calcutta to get us out of our difficulties; and local patriots view with suspicion the progress of negociations the ultimate object of which seems to them to be the transfer to the sister Presidency of the control and regulation of our money maket. Their distrust is augmented by the secrecy which the Directors of the two Banks have hitherto observed as to the details of the correspondence of which only a summary has yet been published; and they forget that whatever discussion is now going on must necessarily be preliminary, and that when the Banks have agreed to terms which may form the basis of a possible settlement, the sanction of Government and of the Legislative Council will still be required to make the proposed arrangement binding. We are not, therefore, afraid that the public will be kept in the dark until some compact has been made prejudicial to their interests, though we regret that the Directors have not hitherto had the good sense to avoid exciting fresh alarms and ignorant opposition by a show of secrecy which after all cannot be thoroughly maintained. But setting aside this matter, which is of small importance, we think it but fair to point out what we take to be the vulgar fallacy of the complaint that the amalgamation would have the effect of rendering Bombay financially dependent on Calcutta. It is a simple misuse of terms to apply to the banking relations of the two Presidencies expressions which one may employ legitimately enough in speaking of their political rivalries. In the conduct of the business of a State Bank having branches at Calcutta and Bombay it is impossible that any real antagonism of interests can arise. If more money can be safely and profitably invested here than in Calcutta, it is absurd to suppose that funds will be kept lying idle and unproductive on the other side of India, through the Bengalees' jealousy of being outstripped by Bombay. In the domain of banking no difference can be recognised between one Presidency and another, the United Bank which it is proposed to form for the whole country will not be the Bank of Bengal, or of Madras, or of Bombay, but of all India ; and the management cannot possibly have any other object than that of obtaining as large dividends for the general body of shareholders as can be yielded by a business carried on in obedience to certain invariable principles to be laid down in the charter of incorporation. We perhaps went too far the other day in recommending that there should be no local board of directors in Bombay. But there can be no doubt of the soundness of the principle we contend for, that the Agent or Secretary here should have the chief responsibility for whatever is done by the Bank; and that instead of being a mere clerk, appointed to register the decrees of the Directors, he should have a seat at the Board and the power of vetoing any measure which he thinks likely to do injury to the Bank. The chief need for precautions is of course in the conduct of the discount business; and no better system could be devised than that which obtains at home, and we believe in Calcutta also, requiring two Directors to attend every day (the members of the Board taking their turn of the work week by week or month by month, and being well paid for their trouble), and in consultation with the Agent determining what bills presented for discount shall be accepted and what rejected. The great point is to provide from the beginning as perfect a plan as can be contrived for checking extravagance and misappropriation of the Bank's funds; when this has once been done, the several branches may safely be trusted to work independently of one another, on a general system, for the good of the whole body of shareholders.

There are two points of view from which the whole scheme may be regarded, that of the shareholders of the Bank of Bombay and that of the community at large. What the shareholders have to consider is whether the proposed amalgamation will improve their present deplorable condition. At present, they possess a certain amount of scrip which is unsaleable except at so heavy a discount that no shareholder who can possibly obtain the means of living from any other source will part with his shares at present prices. We may therefore assume that the bulk of the shares are now in the hands of men who can afford to hold on until they know the result of the liquidation of the Bank of Bombay. Most of the shareholders probably have ceased either to hope or to fear what will be the issue of the whole business ; they have put their share certificates aside, and, if the property should yield a small dividend some day, well and good. Now, the offer which the Bank of Bengal makes to these men is, to give them, for Rs. 1,250 each to be paid by instalments, shares which can be sold immediately in the market for Rs. 2,000, on the condition that they transfer to the Bank the good-will of a business which they themselves can no longer conduct with honour or advantage. Obviously, those shareholders of the old Bank of Bombay who still have any money at command have now the opportunity of investing it in such a way as to cover a large portion of their losses; and those among them, if there be any, who cannot raise the Rs. 500 a share which they are required to pay down, will at all events be no worse off than they are at the present moment. So far therefore as the shareholders are concerned, there seems to be good reason to congratulate them on the favourable turn their affairs may be expected to take if the amalgamation is accomplished. But the change would be also highly advantageous to the general public of this Presidency, because in the first place it would do away with the scandal of the continued existence of such an institution as the Bank of Bombay, and in the second place would bring banking facilities which are much needed to the assistance of the trade of Western India. It is said, But why should not Bombay raise the capital for a new Bank herself instead of asking help from Calcutta? It is sufficient to reply that, if there had been any chance of starting a new Bank successfully here, the attempt would have been made long ago; and that, the Bank of Bengal being the first in the field, we have to consider the proposition actually before us without reference to imaginary schemes that might have been placed in competition with it. A new Bank of Bombay would have had great difficulties to struggle against, and must have been embarrassed for years by the difficulties of the old Bank; nor would it ever have thoroughly regained the confidence of the public, for the credit of a Bank, once tarnished, can never quite recover its original brightness and purity. The Bank of Bengal gives us, on the other hand, at once the advantages of a good name and an assured position; and though we think the amount of new capital proposed to be raised is too large, and do not like the plan of issuing shares at a premium, there are reasons for amending, not for rejecting, the scheme of amalgamation. We conclude then, that the project of one State Bank for Bombay and Bengal, when impartially considered, promises to be beneficial alike to Bombay shareholders and to the general community.

THE ARMY CHAPLAINS AND THE SOLDIERS.

To the Editor of the Bombay Gazette.

SIR,—On reading the reports in the Bombay Gazette and Times of India of the speeches made by some of the supporters of the Army Scripture Readers' Society, at the public meeting held last week at the Town Hall, Bombay, I was sorry to observe remarks from at least two of the speakers, who are, I think, calculated to mislead, and cause misconceptions of the relation existing between the Chaplains, and soldiers of their flock.

I allude especially to the remarks made by the mover and seconder of the third resolution that the soldiers are "rather afraid" to speak with the Chaplains—that when the clergyman goes among them the men come to "attention," and simply "acquiesce" in what he says, but after he has gone away they still "have something more to say to the Scripture Reader."

Passing over the somewhat absurd illogicalness of the above remark, is it not very like a bull? I must confess, from my own experience, and I have been almost daily amongst soldiers for the last three years, and from which several Chaplains have told me, I have good authority for asserting that soldiers are not as it were, struck dumb in the presence of the Chaplains—that they do not stiffen into a parade rigidity of muscle, and tongue whenever the Chaplain speaks to them. Even when talking to their own officers I have almost invariably noticed that although their thews and sinews have a decided tendency to stiffen into "attention," the men are not tongue-tied, but answer their superior's queries with the respectful, but out-spoken manliness common to the British subject all over the world, be he soldier or not.

I have always regarded the salute customary, but not obligatory, on the approach of a Chaplain —who in this country is not military—as a mark of kindly feeling, and regard. Unless I am somewhat mistaken most soldiers would consider any assertion that they are "rather afraid of a parson," as a reflection on their manliness. But if it be true, all I can say is, disband the whole army at once, and put a few Chaplains in its place. The very look of men whose presence makes the British soldier "rather afraid," would cause all the Queen's enemies to perish right off.

The gallant officer went on to say :—"These Scripture Readers know when to speak to the men, whether they happened to be lying on their beds, or smoking their pipes, and he addressed them as taught to do from on high." It was really quite superfluous for the same speaker to say after this, that "the Scripture Readers were doing much good." To doubt it would be blasphemy.

If it be true that a soldier can accept on all occasions, lying down, or smoking, everything that a Scripture Reader says to him—(this is the logical deduction,)—as "coming from on high," the sooner the clergy give up their pulpits to Scripture Readers, the better, for few amongst the former would, I think, expect the members of their congregations to accept their sermons, or ordinary conversation on religious subjects, as the result of direct "teaching from on high."

But irony apart there can be no doubt that Scripture Readers, simply as Scripture Readers, can and do effect very considerable good. Neither can there be any doubt that God—as a previous speaker remarked—has sometimes chosen the weak to contend with the mighty, but then it must be owned that these weak ones were specially called out, strengthened and fitted for the task by God Himself. I do not deny that God's great work can be done by Scripture Readers, or by much humbler agents if God so chooses, but it is one thing for God to call out the weak ones of the earth, and strengthen them to do his bidding, and quite another for a committee of officers and others to select religiously disposed, but comparatively ignorant, men from the ranks of the army, or any other source, and send them forth, on the authority of the said committee, as having a special mission from on high to teach their former comrades.

I cannot suppose that the speakers I allude to if pressed, would, on consideration, claim quite so much as this for the men they send forth ; but their words do, and I cannot help thinking tend to puff up the minds of the Scripture Readers with a false idea of their position.

The remarks of the seconder of the third proposition are not adopted, in my opinion, to promote harmony, and union of action between the Chaplains and their less educated, but generally zealous helpers.

The remark about the soldiers regarding their "Chaplains as belonging to a divinity corps" whose tactics are "different to their own," must be to all unbiassed minds, so incorrect and contrary to faith, that the only answers it requires is the silent one.........And the assertion by the same speaker that the "superior education of the Chaplain placed a great barrier between him and the soldiers" will scarcely hold good.

If the Chaplain goes to the soldier as a teacher and adviser surely the former's superior education can be no barrier to an intercourse what is intended to be profitable to the taught, and I don't for a moment believe any sensible person would assert that kindly feeling between man and man, depends upon degrees of education, greater or less, though few men would deny that the profitableness of the intercourse between the Chaplain or Scripture Reader and soldier, is, other things being equal, in exact ratio to the superiority in education of the former over the soldier.

If the Scripture Reader be not a superior man to the soldier in education, the presence of the former may be "welcome" to the soldier, possibly more so than that of the Chaplain, but it is not likely to be beneficial in the way intended by the promoters of the A. S. R. Society.

When a Scripture Reader of as inferior an education, as at least one of the speakers at the meeting would advocate, meets an equally inferiorly educated soldier, whom the former wishes to enlighten, the result, I should imagine, is likely to be that what is usually the issue of a kind of butting match between forces of ignorance equal in degree.

I do not for a moment wish to say anything harsh of the Scripture Readers. I have merely been following out the remarks of one of the speakers to their logical issue.

Indeed I know myself that all the Scripture Readers with whom I have come in contact are most anxious to raise themselves in point of education, above the class they have to teach and advise, and have succeeded to a greater or less extent.

Only let the Scripture Readers be content to remain what they are, lay helpers of the clergy, and not regard themselves as a class of chota padres, as some of them are in the habit of doing, and they will not find themselves discouraged in their work. I would also suggest that they should not be encouraged to seem even to be coming out of their own proper sphere by dressing themselves up in clerical guise.

They cannot do better than get by heart the concluding words of the Chairman's speech—let them apply the advice given to their daily life and work, they won't go far wrong.

ANGLICANUS.

MR. R. TEMPLE leaves Nagpore on the 3rd April and expects to reach Hydrabad about the 9th. Sir G. Yule awaits his arrival before vacating office. Some surprise has been expressed that Mr. Temple would exchange the Central Provinces for Hydrabad. Besides being an appointment of greater emolument, the residentship of Hydrabad is at this moment by far the most important political post in British India.

THE Lahore Chronicle :—There are many discontented Pathan and Sikh soldiers now in Calcutta, for the purpose of representing their grievances to the Viceroy in person, and hang about all day the precincts of Government House in order to catch the Lord Sahib, when he appears. A few days since six of them lay in ambush and rushed at the Viceregal carriage as it drove past and seized the horses' heads. The body guard came to the rescue, and belaboured the assailants with the flat of their swords, when they decamped ; one of them was captured and made over to the police.

AT a meeting of the Brokers' Loan, Discount, and Banking Company (Limited), held on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Cowasjee Nanabhoy Davur in the chair, a balance sheet was submitted, made up to 31st December last, and also a report by the board of directors. The report stated that the directors had not lent monies or made advances during the past half year except on securities which were approved as safe and realizable and that during that period the gross income had amounted to Rs. 30,285, which after deducting Rs. 20,715 the amount of current expenses, &c., showed a net profit of Rs. 9,570. The report and the balance sheet were adopted ; Mr. Jas. Greenwood and Mr. C. S. Craig were re-elected auditors ; and with a vote of thanks to the chairman. the proceedings terminated.

ON Saturday last, at the Fort Police Court, Govind Girdhur, Bhattia merchant, accompanied by his solicitor, Mr. Lynch, appeared before Mr. Barton to contradict a statement which had been made regarding him by one of the witnesses in the forged currency notes case, and which appeared in the newspapers of the 22nd inst. The statement was to the effect that the first prisoner had given forty false notes for Rs. 1,000 each to Govind Girdhur ; and the publication of it, Mr. Lynch said, had prejudiced his client very much. He was instructed to deny it totally, and hoped that His Worship would represent it to the gentlemen of the press so that the contradiction might be prominently made public. His Worship remarked that nobody who knew Govind Girdhur would have credited the statement ; and that the contradiction was hardly needed from him.

SEEING that the infantry companies of the Bombay Volunteer Rifles are formed and carrying on their drills, some surprise has been expressed that the cavalry troop is not in an equally advanced state of organization. We believe, however, that arrangements are in progress, and, that in a few days, the troop will be in a position to commence its drill. A cavalry instructor from the 3rd Dragoon Guards has been appointed and has arrived in Bombay. Intending Volunteers should, therefore, lose no time in signing the enrolment sheet which is in charge of the adjutant at the head quarters of the corps No. 8, Meadow Street.

We hear also that the Byculla Company is nearly complete in its numbers, and is likely to be taken on the strength of the B. V. Rifles in a few days. We can but give intending members of the company the same advice as above given to the cavalry troop, namely lose no time in enrolling your names at head quarters.

THE BROACH BANK CASE.—The appeal from the decision of Mr. Naylor, the acting Senior Assistant Session Judge of Broach, in the case of the Queen vs. Goculbhoy Gopaldass and two others again came on for argument on Thursday and Friday last, on the Appellate Side of the High Court before the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and the Hon'ble Mr. Justice Newton. Mr. Dunbar appeared for Mr. Nanabhai Cursondass, Mr. Hayllar for Goculbhoy Gopaldass, and Tapidass Bhugwandass. Mr. Judge and Mr. Nanabhai Haridass for all three appellants. Mr. Green, instructed by Mr. Dhirajlall Mathooradass, Government Pleader, appeared on behalf of Government. On Thursday Mr. Hayllar occupied the whole of the day in arguing on behalf of his clients, and on the following day Mr. Judge argued on behalf of the three appellants. The case was again adjourned till Wednesday the 27th instant.

A LIGHT-HOUSE has been erected on the southwest end of Table Island, Cocos group, Eastern part of the Bay of Bengal at an elevation of 209 feet above high-water mark, a light from which has been exhibited since the 15th February 1867. The light-house is in lat. 14° 12′ 30″ N. long. 93° 17′ 45″ E. The building is an iron tower in the form of a frustrum of a cone 91 feet high, painted in alternate rings of red and white, (centre of light being 77 feet above the base and 195 feet above high-water) exhibiting a fixed white dioptric light of the first order, which can be seen from a ship's deck 22 nautical miles in clear weather. The only obstruction to the light being visible all round the horizon, is the Great Coco 2¼ miles distant, which shuts off 25° 55′ or 2·33 points, i. e. from S. E. by S. ¾ S. to S. by W. and the Little Coco 7° 15′ or ·66 of a point, i. e. from S. S. W. ¾ W. to S. W. by W. ¼ W. nearly. Vessel should not approach Table Island nearer than one mile, as there are some detached rocks off the north side. Nor should any vessel attempt to run between Table Island and the Cocos. If forced to take this passage, they should keep nearly mid channel, and use the lead freely.

THE adjourned extraordinary meeting of the Universal Bank and Financial Corporation (Limited) was held on Saturday, the 23rd instant, for the purpose of considering the adoption of the best course to be pursued for the speedy liquidation and final winding up of the Corporation. About 35 shareholders were present. Dr. Reynalds occupied the chair. Mr. Cleary of the firm of Messrs. Leggett and Cleary, who attended on behalf of certain shareholders, proposed the following resolution, viz. that for the speedy realization of the assets of the Company and for the speedy distribution of the same among the shareholders, and in order to avoid the continuance of the expenses of the liquidation as well as to bring the same to a conclusion, a committee of the following gentlemen be appointed to enquire into the present position of the liquidation and to enquire whether any debts are unrecoverable and whether it would be advisable to deal with the said debts in pursuance with terms of the articles of association No. 121 either by the purchase and assignment of them or by sale at public auction, and that a majority of the said committee be empowered to carry this resolution into effect. The names of the members of the committee are, Dr. John Reynalds, Messrs. F. McAfee, Narayen Crustna Laud, Govind Balcrustna and Samuldass Ragoonathdass. The above proposition was seconded and unanimously carried.

THE FORGED CURRENCY NOTES CASE.—The case against Bhugwuntrow Purushram and two others for fraudulently and dishonestly forging Government currency notes for Rs. 1,000 each was called on again on Saturday last before the acting Chief Magistrate, when several additional witnesses were examined as to certain minor facts connected with the proceedings of the prisoners. Mr. Edgington was recalled to state that the plates had been in his charge from the moment they were taken out of the tank until they were produced in Court, and that he had put his initials on the back of each of them with the point of a penknife. A Parsee liquor-seller stated that the first prisoner and the witness Balcristna Babajee had rented for a month the first floor of his house situated near the hay stacks on the Flats. It appeared from the evidence of a woman named Radhabaee that the first prisoner one day placed a box in her house at Khetwaddy, representing that it contained his clothes and that he was afraid of an attachment against his property. A key which fitted the lock of this box was found on the person of the second prisoner when he was apprehended, and it was in evidence that be went on two or three occasions to the woman's house and opened the box. After the prisoners had been arrested, the woman's son had his suspicions aroused regarding the contents of the box, which he broke open and in which he found the plates. He handed them to one Gunputrow to be disposed of as he thought proper ; and the latter ordered one of his servants to throw them into the tank in Kandawaddy, out of which they were taken by a policeman in the presence of Mr. Souter and Mr. Edgington. The plates were thus traced to the first and second prisoners. A note receiver in the Government currency department proved that the five notes for Rs. 1,000 each, produced in court, were entire forgeries. His Worship adjourned the case until the 30th inst. at the request of Mr. Hearn, Crown Solicitor, for the evidence of Mr. G. W. Terry, of the Sir Jamsetjee School of Art, who is expected, as an expert, to prove that the currency notes are impressions taken from the plates produced in Court.

THE PARSEE GYMNASIUM.

MR. DOSABHOY FRAMJEE, the magistrate of police, presided on the occasion of the annual exhibition and distribution of prizes to the successful pupils of the Parsee Gymnasium, which took place on Saturday evening on the ground of the Gymnasium, on the verge of the Esplanade. There was a large attendance of visitors, who were comfortably accommodated with seats in front of the exercise ground. The secretary, Mr. Pestonjee Dajeebhoy, read the annual report for the year 1865-66, from which we gather that there are at present 126 Parsee boys, 29 Guzrati Hindus, 10 Marathi Hindus and two Borahs, receiving physical education at the institution, at the annual cost of Rs. 1,455 ; the income during the same period including a balance of Rs. 978 from the previous year, being Rs. 2,915. The progress made by the students as testified by independent examiners was very satisfactory. There was, however, one subject of regret noticed in the report, namely, that the drill class was abandoned for want of a sufficient number of students. The manly sport of "cricket" is now practised twice a week ; and there are several minor points in the report which we need not notice here. The report concluded with a high panegyric to Mr. Cowasjee Jehangeer Readymoney, who has been the main supporter of this very useful institution. His liberal donation of Rs. 10,000 for a suitable building for the use of the Gymnasium, could not be availed of, as there was some difficulty in obtaining a plot of ground from Government on the Esplanade.

The report having been adopted, several resolutions were passed, thanking the managing committee for its exertions, and Mr. Cowasjee Jehangeer for his liberal patronage of the institution.

The boys then performed various feats and exercises which greatly amused and delighted the assembly. They consisted chiefly of swinging on the rope, exercises on the horizontal and parallel bars, summersaults, boxing, fencing, &c. &c. Prizes were then distributed to the most deserving pupils.

Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee then rose and in an able and eloquent speech, spoke to the following effect : —He said that he was quite unexpectedly called to the chair, in fact about half an hour previously he was not quite aware that he would be present at the meeting. He would, however, endeavour to make a few observations on the points which seemed to him to call for remark. He very forcibly pointed out the necessity for physical education, which was greatly neglected in this country. Physical education, he said, ought to go hand in hand with mental culture. It was a matter of considerable neglect that there were no gymnasiums attached to the educational institutions, both Government and private. Mr. Dosabhoy observed that in England and the other countries of Europe which he had visited, he did not find a single educational institution which did not provide for the means of bodily devolpment. The gentlemen present must have read what that most philanthropic and benevolent lady, Miss Carpenter, said the other day, after examining one of our public schools, that she was greatly surprised at the utter absence of physical education in connection with our educational institutions. It must also be fresh in the memory of those whom he was now addressing how pointedly our late highly esteemed Governor, Sir Bartle Frere, whose name would not be forgotten in Bombay for centuries to come, animadverted upon the same want when he presided at the annual exhibition of the Sir Jamsetjee Jeejeebhoy institution. Mr. Dosabhoy admitted that various difficulties did exist in the way of the consummation of this very desirable object, as the buildings in which the various educational institutions were located, had no accommodation for the supplying of this want. He hoped, however, that in view of these difficulties, the heads of our schools, would, for the interests of their pupils, advise and encourage them to attend this gymnasium. He would embrace this opportunity of publicly thanking Mr. Burgess, the able and learned Principal of the Sir J. J. P. B. Institution for sending a large number of pupils to this gymnasium from his school, and hoped that other educational authorities would follow his example. The Chairman then joined in the regret expressed in the report at the discontinuance of the drill class, as it would, among other reasons, especially be the means of forming among native gentlemen, a volunteer corps in Bombay. It would not only afford legal support to Government in time of need, but it would also ensure in our minds a sense of security against our enemies. Mr. Dosabhoy could very well recall to memory the state of the native mind in Bombay during the Mahomedan riots of 1851, and the sepoy revolt of 1857. Would they, asked he, have been in that state of fright and terror, when Bombay was denuded of European troops, if there had been strong volunteer corps of natives in Bombay? He instanced the case of England, and showed how great was her strength in her volunteer corps. Had they not read in the papers the value of such assistance in suppressing in some cases the Fenian riots. If unfortunately England were at this moment engaged in a foreign war, where the services of her regular troops might be required, she would be perfectly secure at home in the strength of her volunteer army. He then continued to observe that physical training should not be abandoned by boys after they leave school ; it was as necessary in manhood as in their younger days. He said that in England there were may places where adults, sons of noblemen and gentlemen, attended for physisal training. He particularly instanced the one kept by Captain Chaisso in Oxford Street, where he had seen phothographs taken of persons before their entering that establishment and those after they had been there for some time, and the contrast was so remarkable that one could scarcely say that they were of one and the same person. In conclusion he exhorted his hearers to give this subject their earnest consideration, he would mention at the same time, what was not generally known, that there were Gymnasiums at the family residences of the Hon'ble Munguldass Nathoobhoy, and Mr. Pestomjee Hormusjee Cama, and they both had told him that they would gladly admit sons of gentlemen into their gymnasuims. Finally he was glad to notice that the munificent donation of Mr. Cowasjee Jehangheer Readymoney was handsomely acknowledged by the managing committee. Mr. Dosabhoy was happy to say and his hearers would be gratified to learn what he had just heard from the president of the committee Mr. Nusserwanji Merwanjee Bhownuggree that that morning Mr. Cowasjee had expressed his warm interest in and his willingness to further assist, if need be, this institution.

Mr. Kaikhushro Nowrojee, editor of the Rast Goftar, then thanked Mr. Dosabhoy Framjee, in suitable terms, for his able conduct in the chair, and the meeting dispersed.

BANK OF GUZERAT (LIMITED).

THE following is the report of the directors to be presented at the ordinary general meeting of the shareholders to be held at Surat, on Saturday the 30th instant.

To the SHAREHOLDERS OF THE BANK OF GUZERAT (LIMITED).

IN meeting the shareholders for the first time, your directors consider that their best course is to submit a short history of the Bank of Guzerat (Limited) from its earliest promotion to the present time.

During the month of December, 1864, Mr. Premchund Roychund arranged with certain native gentlemen at Surat to form a Bank under the name of the Bank of Surat (Limited), and issued letters of allotment for 29,554 shares to persons in Surat and Bombay. These letters of allotment were all taken up, and the deposit of Rupees 100 per share was paid into the Eastern Financial Association (Limited) at Bombay and Surat, with whom the promoters opened a banking account in the name of the Bank of Surat. No practical measures were ever taken to commence business, but in March, 1865, a proposition was made by Mr. Premchund Roychund to form another bank with a larger capital to absorb the Bank of Surat, to have its Head Office in London, and to be called the Bank of Guzerat (Limited).

The shareholders in the Bank of Surat were asked to join and sign the provisional deed of the new Bank, which they did with very few exceptions.

Allotment letters of shares in the Bank of Guzerat (Limited) were issued, and the deposit of Rs. 100 per share on 2,925 shares was paid into the Central Bank of Western India. The amount paid into the Eastern Financial Association to the credit of the Bank of Surat (Limited) remained undisturbed, with the exception of Rs. 1,29,100 which were retained in Surat by the promoters.

The aggregate capital of both banks thus became Rupees 23,47,900, and the shares 23,479 in number.

At the request of Mr. Premchund Roychund, Messrs. G. P. Robinson, E. I. Howard, and W. R. Cassels, who were proceeding to England, consented to be directors of the Bank in London, and their names were accordingly inserted in the provisional deed of the Bank of Guzerat; but as the Bank was formed to become an English institution with its head office in London, it was not then registered as a Joint Stock Company in Bombay.

Of the three directors named in the provisional deed, Mr. W. R. Cassels has taken no part whatever in the affairs of the Bank ; he was never qualified to act, as he did not pay the deposit on any portion of the 500 shares allotted to him.

In April, 1865, Mr. Premchund Roychund, with the assent of Messrs. Robinson and Howard, made a proposal that the Central Bank of Western India should amalgamate with the Bank of Guzerat. It was further proposed that the name of the amalgamated bank should be "The Bank of Guzerat and Central India (Limited)"; that the head office should be in London ; and that the gentlemen named in the provisional deed of the Bank of Guzerat (Limited) should be the directors, Mr. G. Inverarity being added to their number. The directors of the Central Bank received the proposition favourably, and at a meeting of the shareholders of this Bank held on 6th May, 1865, a resolution was passed agreeing to the amalgamation.

This Resolution was passed unanimously, but was not final, as it had to be confirmed at another meeting which was called for the 12th June following.

With every confidence in the result of the meeting of the shareholders of the Central Bank convened to confirm the special resolutions regarding the amalgamation, the directors of that Bank had on the 22nd May a consultation with Messrs. Robinson, Howard, and Premchund Roychund about the capital of the Bank of Guzerat. Mr. Premchund Roychund then stated that in his capacity as chief promoter of the Bank he had instructed the Eastern Financial Association—the bankers of the Bank of Surat—to purchase on behalf of the Bank of Guzerat 100 shares in the Port Canning Land Investment Reclamation and Dock Company at a total cost of Rs. 13,20,000. He further stated that he had re-sold those shares also on behalf of the Bank for 14 lakhs for future delivery to Mr. B. H. Cama, who had failed on the 15th May, being a few days before the meeting in question. On Messrs. Robinson and Howard declining to recognise this transaction as binding on the Bank of Surat or the Bank of Guzerat, Mr. Premchund Roychund at once assumed the personal responsibility of it, and agreed and gave then a memorandum whereby he guaranteed not only the Rs. 13,20,000, but the entire paid-up capital of the Bank of Surat. This guarantee was considered to be quite sufficient at the time, in consequence of the position and reputed wealth of Mr. Premchund Roychund.

On the 24th May, immediately after this arrangement was made, Mr. Robinson proceeded to England to start the amalgamated Bank in the capacity of managing director.

On the 12th June—the day fixed for the meeting of the shareholders of the Central Bank to confirm the special resolution for the amalgamation—Mr. Premchund Roychund served a notice through his solicitors on the Central Bank that the amalgamation was to be broken off. His notice was considered final, and all arrangements were suspended.

Mr. Robinson, who had, as already stated, departed from Bombay, found on his arrival in England a telegram stating that the amalgalmation was broken off, and that Mr. Premchund Roychund intended to wind up the Bank of Guzerat.

In October of the same year, Mr. Robinson, who was still in England received a telegram requesting him to return to Bombay to open the Bank of Guzerat as a local institution. This telegram was sent at the instance of Mr. Premchund Roychund.

Mr. Robinson arrived in Bombay on the 30th November following, and found that during his absence nothing whatever had been done with the Bank except the investment of some funds in loans, &c. at Surat, and he stopped these advances at once.

These advances were made by the direction of Mr. Premchund Roychund, but without the knowledge of Mr. Howard or Mr. Robinson.

The position of Bombay had changed very much during the absence of Mr. Robinson : a share panic had occurred ; several failures had taken place ; and the Eastern Financial Association had stopped payment. Mr. Robinson in conjunction with Mr. Howard therefore considered it absolutely necessary to take measures to protect not only themselves but the other shareholders in the Bank of Guzerat, although they had some doubts as to their powers of action under the provisional deed, the Bank being still unregistered. They called upon Mr. Premchund Roychund to make good his guarantee ; but their application was hardly made when that gentleman left Bombay and was absent for nearly two months. Shortly after his return an interview with him was obtained, and he was urged to pay in cash the amount of his guarantee, or lodge tangible and negociable securities as against it. Mr. Premchund then handed to Messrs. Robinson and Howard a deposit note of the Central Bank for ten lakhs of rupees, and stated that he held 11,000 shares in the Bank of Guzerat—nearly half the capital subscribed—and would make over the documents for 9,000 shares to these gentlemen as security for the balance.

The documents for 2,600 shares out of the 9,000 were at once made over, but the balance, notwithstanding repeated pressure, could not be obtained. It afterwards appeared that subsequent to the above arrangement Mr. Premchund Roychund had deposited 6,000 shares in the Bank of Guzerat with the Eastern Financial Association, then in liquidation, as security for a private debt for which he was much pressed for payment. Messrs. Robinson and Howard then called upon Mr. Premchund Roychund to state whether these 6,000 shares were, as they supposed, a portion of the balance of the 9,000 due to them, and although they could obtain no definite reply they were convinced of the correctness of their supposition. Acting on their convictions, Messrs. Robinson and Howard, on behalf of the Bank of Guzerat, gave notice to the liquidators of the Eastern Financial Association of a prior claim on these shares, of which they had obtained particulars. The claim was not admitted, but owing to the doubtful legal position of Messrs. Robinson and Howard, they hesitated to take the dispute into the law courts.

While these arrangements and disputes were proceeding, considerable time passed, and the commercial panic of last year had set in with all its intensity, and amongst many others Mr. Premchund Roychund succumbed.

The complications caused by the failure of Mr. Premchund Roychund placed the Bank of Guzerat in particular in an unusually critical position, and Messrs. Robinson and Howard then consulted some of largest shareholders as to the best couse to pursue, especially with regard to the amout due to the Bank by the Eastern Financial Association, and also the 6,000 shares in dispute, and all parties agreed that, if possible, some amicable arrangement should be made.

Digitized with financial assistance from the Government of Maharashtra on 18 June, 2017

In the first instance it was considered advisable to register the Bank of Guzerat in Bombay, to give the representatives full authority to act, and Messrs. G. P. Robinson, E. I. Howard, and J. W. Wright of Bombay, and Messrs. Dwarkadass Lullabhoy and Pranjevandass Hurjewandass of Surat, were described in the articles of association as the Provisional directors.

The registration of the Bank was effected on the 29th November 1866, and negociations were at once formally commenced with the liquidators of the Eastern Financial Association. After much discussion all disputes have been settled in the following manner, viz:—

That the Bank of Guzerat accept as from the Eastern Financial Association the deposit receipt for ten lakhs in the Central Bank and 2,600 shares in the Bank of Guzerat handed to Messrs. Howard and Robinson by Mr. Premchund Roychund, also 6,000 shares in the same Bank subsequently made over by the Association to the Bank, together with the 100 Shares in the Port Canning Land Investment Reclamation and Dock Company, already mentioned, as payment in full of all demands to the extent of Rs. 19,200,000 against the Eastern Financial Association. Further, that the Bank of Guzerat be allowed any interest on the account that the High Court may sanction to the general body of creditors of the Eastern Financial Association.

The whole of the shares in this Bank received and included in the foregoing arrangement are 8,600 in number, and have been cancelled.

The Eastern Financial Association being in liquidation under order of the High Court, judicial assent has been given to this arrangement in as far as it was necessary.

Having given the history of so much of the capital of the Bank of Surat as was deposited with the Eastern Financial Association in Bombay, your directors have now to refer to the balance, of which Rs. 1,29,100 were retained at Surat, and Rs. 2,92,500 were deposited with the Central Bank, the latter being the additional capital issued by the Bank of Guzerat.

When Mr. Robinson went to England this sum was in tact; when he returned it was found that two and a half lakhs of Rupees had been invested under the order and on the responsibility of Mr. Premchund Roychund in loans and advances in Surat. These transactions are those to which reference has already been made, and were peremptorily stopped by Mr. Robinson and Mr. Howard when they had knowledge of them. A claim will be made on Mr. Premchund Roychund's estate for any loss occasioned by these transactions.

During the recent panic many Banks and Financial Associations in liquidation held a large number of shares in this Bank. The shares were unduly depressed, and Messrs. Robinson and Howard, to relieve the holders of these shares, invested Rs. 1,35,083-11-3 of the funds remaining in the Central Bank in the purchase of 3,105 share chiefly from failed Institutions. The average rate of purchase was Rs. 43-3-1 per share.

In consequence of these purchases, and the cancelment of the 8,600 shares in the arrangement with the Eastern Financial Association, the capital of the Bank now consists of 11,774 shares, representing Rs. 11,77,400. The assets of the Bank consist of the deposit receipt of the Central Bank, due 13th January 1870 for Rs. 10,00,000, bearing interest at 9 per cent.; 100 shares in the Port Canning Land Investment Reclamation and Dock Company, valued at Rs. 12,000; Cash, property, and loans due to the Bank in Surat considered good, Rupees 1,00,000. According to the above statement the shares of this Bank are worth Rs. 94-7-2 each, and your Directors now call upon you to decide the future of the Bank.

If you resolve to wind up, the Bank, your directors expect that there will be considerable delay in realising the deposit receipt of the Central Bank—the chief asset—as payment cannot be demanded from the Central Bank until the depostt is due in 1870.

But if the shareholders decided up carrying on the Bank, your directors are of opinion that arrangements can be made by which a large portion of the amount of the deposit the receipt represents may be made immediately available at any rate they expect to secure a sufficient amount to enable them to commence business at once without making any call on the shareholders, and, in the opinion of your directors no time could be more propitious for bringing the Bank into active operation than the present.

In the arrangements that your directors would propose for the immediate utilisation of the funds they would obtain under the deposit receipt, the question of interest will not be overlooked.

Since the Bank was registered, Mr. J. W. Wright, one of the Provisional directors, has proceeded to England and relinquished his seat at the Board; as a temporary measure Mr. H. G. Dunlop was asked to take his place; and Mr. Lallsunker Bhoorabhoy has been elected an additional member of the board; but they, as well as all the original directors, retire in terms of the deed of settlement. Should you decide on carrying on the Bank, Messrs. Robinson, Howard, and Lallsunker Bhoorabhoy offer themselves for re-election.

If these gentlemen are elected there will still remain two vacancies which your directors propose to keep open, that they may be enabled, if possible, to secure the co-operation of some influential gentlemen in Bombay.

In the future operations of the Bank your directors recommend that the Head Office should be fixed at Bombay.—the capital of the Presidency, where the management can be better conducted; but they propose, under the provision of the Deed, to establish a Committee at Surat to watch the business at that important city; and this committee will at all times have the general affairs of the Bank open to their inspection and advice.

Should the suggestion of your directors be carried out, the shareholders may rest assured that the establishment of the Bank will be the subject of the greatest care. They have learnt serious lessons from the past history of the Bank and the recent vicissitudes of Bombay, which will guide them in avoiding all rash business and speculative connections, inducing them to confine their operations to a sound and legitimate banking business as the only hope of success.

By order of the Board of Directors,
MOTIRAM DULPUTRAM, Manager.

THE BOMBAY EDUCATION SOCIETY.

The annual general meeting of "the Society for the Promotion of the Education of the Poor within the Government of Bombay," better known as the Bombay Education Society, was held at the Byculla Schools on Friday afternoon, His Excellency the Governor presiding. The meeting was not open to the public or to the representatives of the Press, but we have received a copy of the following report which was read at it:—

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1866.

The Managing Committee are glad to have in their power to make a more favourable report of the condition of the Society than on the last occasion of a general meeting in so far as the Government aid has assisted in the maintenance of the Military Asylum.

There are still difficulties to be overcome in making the schools more available for the children and orphans of English parents not connected with the public services.

The total receipts of the Society for the year 1866, amounted to Rs. 1,85,587-9-11; of this sum 50,000 rupees was received as back payment on account of Military Asylum, and also a considerable sum more on account of the value of Matheran Buildings recovered from Government. It is gratifying to observe that the amount from general subscriptions has increased by Rs. 1,075-15-0. The total amount of subscriptions, Rs. 9,595.

The payments allowed for maintenance in the Military Asylum are now on a more satisfactory footing, and Government has been addressed respecting the claims made for back payments which have been partially met. For the Society to provide for the poor, it is necessary to enlarge the premises and particularly to provide dormitories for the boys' schools on which the greatest demands are made for accommodation.

The number of children in the Military Asylum is 230; 94 are supported by the Society.

The payment by parents of children has decreased by Rs. 3,457 but the number of children of parents who pay has also decreased. The payment received on this account covers about half the expenses on the average of children so admitted. It is very desirable that authentic information should be obtained of the position of parents who place their children in schools, as it is feared that some may obtain the benefits of the charity who are not properly entitled to them, to check this for the future it is intended not to admit any children unless the parents or guardians fill up applications' papers which will be furnished by the Society so that the Committee may not be dependent. So much on personal recommendations in this matter as they have hitherto been.

The Church collections have been Rs. 2,130 in excess of last year; it is to be hoped that a still increasing interest may be taken in the schools by the congregation scattered throughout this Presidency from nearly every part of which children have been sent to them.

The thanks of the Society are due to the Lord Bishop for the interest he has taken in this matter.

The surplus from the Press has been Rs. 15,200 in excess of last year, the rent paid for the Press premises is most excessive, and as the owners have put the property up for sale on two or three occasions, but demand an exorbitant price, it is necessary now to decide whether it is right to pay the amount of rent asked or whether more economical premises cannot be obtained. The Committee made what they consider a fair offer for the property.

The Committee bear in mind the Resolution of last meeting respecting the sale of the Press, but in the present state of affairs in Bombay it is hopeless to attempt to realize the value of such a property, and it seems therefore to the Committee that the only course is to insist on a reduction of rent for a lease or vacate the premises, and should this be necessary the Society will find it more satisfactory to erect on its own freebold land plain premises for its Press, and if a time should then appear favourable for sale there would be a reasonable prospect of obtaining a fair price both for stock and premises, while at present the stock and premises hired by the month is comparatively valueless.

With regard to the expenditure of the schools, the largest item is the messing expense, this has decreased a little with the number of children admitted, but the rate per head has been Rs. 10 against Rs. 8 last year.

The dietary is improved however, which will account for the more robust condition of the children taken into consideration with sanitary improvements. * * * * * *

The item "salaries" has increased from the expense of engaging a new head master and second mistress, the expense under this head has been enquired into by a Sub-Committee consisting of the following gentlemen: Rev. W. K. Fletcher, Rev. G. C. Reynell, Dr. Hunter, and Col. Hatch.

Their recommendations have been adopted to some extent in sending for a new head-mistress for the girls' school.

The miscellaneous charges are somewhat above last year.

The printing and stationery account has also increased.

The repairs to buildings are more than Rs. 7,000 in excess of last year, including the expense of a bath and latrines for boys' school.

This item will be still larger in the current year; the premises were in a very dilapidated condition and a considerable expense has already been incurred to repair them externally; there are still heavy repairs to be done internally.

There is some slight increase in the Secretary's establishment.

The amount paid for pupil teachers is much the same as last year's.

The amount of expenses for passage and outfit is a trifle less than last year, the expense under this head was submitted to the Sub-Committee before named.

The cost of clothing materials from England is in excess of last year by Rs. 2,000.

The head mistress having resigned her appointment, the ladies Committee have written to select a suitable person to succeed her, and funds have been remitted to England for the purpose. The second mistress engaged last year having resigned her appointment, a new mistress has been obtained from England, who has taken up her duties at the school. During the past year, the third mistress and two joint third masters have also left the school.

Arrangements are being made to obtain more seats in Byculla Church for the children, by making over to the Church Trustees certain pews held by the Society in the Church in lieu of other accommodation to be allotted for the children. The gallery in the Church will require enlargement, and better ventilation will be arranged and room made to enable the children to kneel down, which has not been the case hitherto.

A Committee consisting of Colonel Marriott, Rev. W. K. Fletcher, and Rev. G. C. Reynell is considering the question of the constitution of the Managing Committee in terms of the resolution of the last general meeting. Their report will be submitted to a special general meeting.

Captain A. Phillips, your Secretary, resigned his appointment, and Mr. J. Cameron, one of the Directors, accepted.

The Rev. G. L. Fenton having proceeded to Europe on account of his health, the venerable Archdeacon C. H. Leigh Lye has taken charge of the school at Poona; his report thereon is herewith appended.

Messrs. A. R. Scoble and H.E. Jacomb having resigned, the committee elected Dr. F. Broughton and W. Wedderburn, Esq., to occupy the vacancy until 1868. C. E. Chapman, Esq., was elected in place of J. F. Hore, Esq.

In accordance with the recommendation of the Finance Committee, washing machines and cooking apparatus have been ordered from England and on their arrival will be immediately set in operation. It will be necessary to secure a proper laundress to teach the use of washing machines, and a woman as cook for the girls' kitchen.

With few exceptions, the children are honest, still, there have been cases both with the girls and boys, when the Committee have been much at a loss how to dispose of those whose influence the head master pointed out as bad on the other children, and to such a serious extent that the want of a reformatory institution in Bombay for English children was greatly felt.

A training ship in Bombay Harbour might be found an excellent plan to dispose of boys who require a discipline too severe to be exercised in the school, and for the girls probably it will be better to board them out after they attain an age to leave the school if they can obtain employment even to partially pay the cost to the society, and those for whom no employment can be found might be employed in the domestic duties of the girls' schools.

The proposed notice of the Lord Bishop to alter the title of the Society, which was given last year, has been recalled, as there is now no necessity for the change.

After the meeting, a distribution of prizes took place in the hall of the Girls' School, in presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen. His Excellency having taken the chair

Mr. John Cameron (the Secretary) read the examiner's reports, the chief of which is that of Mr. William Draper, Assistant Educational Inspector, which is as follows (it being dated 24th December last and addressed to the Director of Public Instruction):—"Sir,—I have the honour to submit my report on the Bombay Education Society's schools at Byculla which I examined on the 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 26th ultimo. (2.) I annex two programmes showing the standards under which the several classes were presented for examination. The number of boys examined was a hundred and forty-six, and the number of girls a hundred and four: twelve little girls who were present were too young to be examined. (3.) During a part of the past year the schools had not their full complement of teachers; and some of the children have not made the progress that might have been looked for under more favourable circumstances. On the whole, however, the schools are in a fair state. The reading and writing were good and about half the children worked correctly the examples given in arithmetic. The senior class of the boys' school, which I mentioned very favourably in my last report, has fully maintained its character. Except in geometry, which is a difficult study for boys of 12 or 13 years old, the boys of this class did well in all their subjects. I was particularly pleased with their grammatical knowledge. They passed well; and were also able to analyse simple sentences according to the system of Morell. (4.) The second class passed a satisfactory examination: but is rather weak in grammar and arithmetic. Both this class and the senior class did well in history. The remaining classes of the boys' school, and nearly all the classes of the girls' school, knew very little of their history. The children of the lower classes are, I think, too young to learn history, and might employ their time more profitably in the study of English and arithmetic. (5.) I will now make a few observations on each of the lower classes of the boys' school. Class III. read fluently and well, but several boys failed in explanation. It did well in geography, and particularly well in writing from dictation. In common with all the classes below the first, it is weak in grammar. Class IV. read well and explained very fairly. It is weak in arithmetic. Class V. read well, and wrote particularly well from dictation. Several boys failed in explanation. Class VI. read well on the whole, though not very fluently. Many failed in explanation. Class VII. read very fairly and explained well. Class VIII. This class gave the meaning of words well. The reading book is too difficult for it. Since the date of my last report, some of the books belonging to the reading series of the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge have been received from England. It appears, however, that a first book was not sent. (6.) The reading of the girls' school was, as last year, remarkably good; but in many instances the books were not explained so well as they were read. Most of the classes did well in geography; and about half the girls worked the examples given in arithmetic. Class I. did pretty well in parsing, and answered fairly in history. Class II. wrote particularly well from dictation. Class IV. did better in history than the class above it. The little girls of Class VI. did very well, considering their age. (7.) The children of both schools recited their pieces of poetry well; some of them very well. (8.) To test their skill in writing English, I read over twice, to the senior boys and girls a portion of easy narrative; and required them to write the substance of what had been read. I enclose some of the best of their performances. A report by Captain Waddington, Educational Inspector, with reference to the Poona Infant Branch of the Schools, was also read. It shewed that out of 10 children examined according to Standard III. 6 passed in arithmetic, 10 in writing, 9 in reading and recitation, and 8 in dictation; and that out of 23 examined according to Standard I, the number which passed in arithmetic was 13, in writing 20, and in reading and recitation 17. A marked improvement was noticed in the healthy appearance of the children, accounted for by the fact that they were not so crowded as formerly, particularly at night. Reports in regard to the religious knowledge of the scholars were also read—the one which referred to the schools in Bombay having been prepared by Mr. James Taylor (Presbyter), and the other, which spoke of the Poona School, by the Very Rev. Archdeacon Leigh Lye.

The reading of these reports being over, the scholars sang the anthem,—"Thine O Lord is the greatness," in a manner which showed that their musical training had been careful and efficient. A large number of the girls afterwards recited "The Battle of the League," in concert; and though this style of recitation must be as difficult in execution as we think it is objectionable in taste, they acquitted themselves in it exceedingly well. One or two of the boys also gave recitations; and the glee "Hail, smiling morn," and the part song "Christmas Day," were afterwards sung. Before distributing the prizes,

His Excellency expressed the pleasure he felt in presiding on this occasion. He had of course (he said) taken care that his first appearance in public after his arrival in Bombay should be upon an occasion when there would be an entire unanimity of feeling; and he was sure that no meeting could be more likely than the present to command a general and universal sympathy. He had had an additional pleasure in taking the chair that day, because he felt that there was no one present who did not painfully miss their late friend Sir Bartle Frere. He could assure them that at the time when Sir Bartle left this country, and when his heart was full of regrets in taking leave of many valued friends whom he had known for years during his long service, yet, in the midst of all, he did not forget to address an earnest entreaty to him and to the ladies of his family, that during their residence here they would do all they possibly could to promote the efficiency of these schools and to encourage the exertions of those who were engaged there in teaching the poor and in teaching the orphans of our British soldiers,—almost his last recommendation to him being, to be as long as he remained here a warm friend of the Byculla schools. (Applause.) Therefore it was not only from the interest which he naturally took in an institution of this kind, but in order also to carry out the last wishes of one who from his first entrance into Bombay had been amongst the warmest friends of the Byculla schools, that he had taken the chair that day with the greatest pleasure. And he would also say that he had been doubly pleased to do so, because, —as the Lord Bishop was now about to leave this country for some time,—he wished by his presence to give an assurance that neither His Lordship's absence nor the loss of Sir Bartle Frere would, if it was within his power to prevent it, cause the schools to decline. (Applause.) He desired to make his observations very short, but at the same time he must express the great gratification, not only with which he had heard the reports of the Examiners, but with which he had witnessed the proficiency of the scholars and the obvious good sense which guided their studies,—for besides what the reports said as to their great proficiency in useful learning and as to their having received advantageously a careful religious education, it was noticeable that the cultivation of their reason and their appreciation of the greatest and noblest thoughts of our language, had not been overlooked,—that their education was not confined to dry study, but included that which would adorn them and make them graceful as well as useful members of society. It would now be his pleasing duty to distribute the prizes of those who had been successful in the schools. To those who had not gained prizes this year he could only say that he hoped in a future year to have the pleasure of presenting prizes to them; but at any rate they must be pleased—although they were not the recipients of prizes themselves—to see many of their school fellows receiving this testimony of the approbation of their masters and mistresses, and to see the warm and cordial interest which was taken by the gentlemen and the ladies of Bombay in the welfare of those who were there educated—the sons and the daughters, many of them, of gallant defenders of their country, and all, he was sure, likely in their several spheres to render good service and to make the name of Englishman respected among every class of the people. (Applause.)

His Excellency handed the prizes to the scholars in a most genial manner, saying a few kindly words of encouragement to most of them. He seemed indeed to establish himself at once as a favourite, both with teachers and scholars. After the distribution of the prizes

The Lord Bishop of Bombay rose to express the indebtedness of the committee to His Excellency for the part he had taken in that day's proceedings and for the promise of support which he had been so kind as to give. He was very glad that the first impression upon His Excellency's mind, in regard to this institution, was so favourable as it had been; and the committee hoped their young friends would make it their aim that the schools should never forfeit the good opinion and the kind feeling which the Governors of this Presidency had been accustomed to show towards them and which their present Governor had already expressed. It was frequently his (His Lordship's) duty to travel to different parts of this Presidency, and in visiting the various stations he had been accustomed to make enquiries with regard to persons who might be residing there, and who had been educated in the Byculla schools. He had been struck with the number of instances in which he had thus been able to trace the benefits resulting from this institution—benefits such as only an institution like this could confer, for it was by means of the good, sound, and useful education which those young people received in this school, that they were able when they left its walls and were carried by the providence of God into their various stations of life, to maintain themselves honourably and to bring credit to themselves as well as to the institution in which they had been brought up. It had been a source of exceeding pleasure to him in his visitation tours to find such numerous instances of the advantages derived from these schools. He recollected in one large station, when the usual question was asked—"Are there many here who were brought up in the Byculla Schools?" the chaplain replied that there were many and began to number them up, till in the space of a few seconds he had named sixteen, who were happily and respectably settled, and who owed all their happiness and prosperity in life and the respectablity with which they were then maintaining themselves in that station to the instruction they had received in these schools. There had been instances, too, of persons who had been brought up in this institution reflecting the benefits which they had themselves received from it by becoming teachers of others. This was indeed a very gratifying feature in the history of the institution. Not long ago a young girl who left the institution became the mistress of a school at a distant station; and her history and character in that station had been peculiarly gratifying. The way in which she had maintained the school—and, still more, the way in which she had maintained her own personal character—was particularly pleasing. In another instance, a short time since, two young persons who had been educated in this institution, took up, on leaving it, a most important position in the Bengal Presidency as the master and mistress of another school. These were very encouraging illustrations of the way in which this school was working; and he had no hesitation in saying that if there was any one thing which contributed to our good character throughout this Presidency, it was this school by the benefits which it had conferred upon so many individuals who were scattered over this part of India. One chaplain had said to him not long ago—"I don't know how it is, but all our good people seem to come from Byculla." Now he hoped his young friends would try that it should always be so. It should be their ambition to maintain this good character, and it should be their higher ambition, wherever they might be, to carry out the lessons they had received from their teachers—to fear God, to be charitable and kind to others, and to be diligent in all their duties. For fifteen years (continued the Lord Bishop) it had been his happiness to attend on these occasions. Last year unfortunately he was absent, for the meeting was later in the year than usual; but this was now the fifteenth time that he had been permitted to be present. Nothing had gratified him so much as to observe the way in which the children in these schools were imbued with the great principles which were taught in the Holy Scriptures. There were those in the present day, as there had been in former times, whose maxim would be, morality without Christianity, morality without the Bible. God grant that that might never be listened to amongst them! They knew what it was to teach true morality—that it was to teach all, young and old, to forsake ungodliness and to live soberly and righteously and godly in this present world—and that it was the grace of God which brought salvation. The Lord Bishop concluded by again thanking His Excellency on the part of the committee for his kindness in having presided on this occasion, and by expressing a hope that during the period he might be permitted to rule over this Presidency he would find frequent occasion to feel satisfied with the condition of this institution. (Applause).

Before the meeting separated it was agreed on the proposition of the Lord Bishop that the children should this year as formerly be treated to a tea. The children sang the national anthem, and gave repeated cheers for the Governor, Sir Bartle Frere, the Lord Bishop, and others of their friends.

A large quantity of needlework, &c., prepared by the girls attending the school, was exhibited and seemed to be admired by the ladies.

FORT POLICE COURT.—18TH MARCH.

(BEFORE DOSABHOY FRAMJEE, ESQ.)

Oosman Ookerdah vs. Safoorabai his wife.

This was an application by Oosman Ookerdah for an order to discontinue the payment to his wife Safoorabai of Rs. 40 a month ordered by this Court to be paid to her by him on the 19th April, 1866, as he was willing to maintain her on condition of her living with him.

Before hearing the advocates on either side, His Worship asked Safoorabai if she was willing to return to her husband and she replied that she was not because he had beaten and illtreated her and turned her out of his house, and left her without support for several years.

To this Oosman Ookerdah replied that he was willing to take his wife back and give her a separate room in his house.

Mr. Khunderao said he applied for the order under Section 10 of Act 48 of 1860 as his client was willing to take his wife Safoorabai home and support her.

Mr. Judge contended that the law quoted did not apply, as the application came too late, not too late to satisfy the wife but too late in law, for from the wording of the Section quoted by Mr. Khunderao it was quite clear that to enable a magistrate to entertain such an application it must be made before the order for maintenance is passed, but even if it were otherwise, he felt sure that His Worship would not order his client to return to a husband who had behaved so disgracefully towards her has Oosman Ookerdah had done throughout this case as well as before it come on. His Worship in giving judgment said, the wife charged her husband with refusing to support her and the husband charged his wife with adultery but no evidence was giving in support of the charge. The order for Rs. 40 a month was then made and the husband according to his idea divorced her and objected to pay the monthly allowance ordered on the ground that Safoorabai was no longer his wife, and when the case came on it was shewn by Mr. Judge that the divorce was not legal according to the law applicable to Cutchee Memons to which sect Oosman Ookerdah belongs and I refused to entertain plea of divorce because this was not the court to try such a question. An application was then made by Oosman Ooketordah to reduce the monthly sum of Rs. 40 on the ground of an alteration in his circumstances which failed also. Oosman Ookerdah then applied to take back his wife and she refused to go back to him. I then dismissed the application with leave to the husband to renew it at the end of three months when I directed that the husband must prove that he had done all in his power to pursuade his wife to return to his house. In this way I delayed giving a final decision in the hope that the matter might be settled, amicably but as this has not been done my decision is that as Oosman Ookerdah made so disgraceful a charge as that of adultery against his wife and failed to prove it he is entitled to no consideration, and I am further of opinion that if the present offer were sincere it would have been made, as indeed it ought to have been made on the 19th April last when this case first came on to be heard. I therefore dismiss this case, and order that Oosman Ookerdah continue to pay his wife Safoorabai Rs. 40 a month for her maintenance.

23RD MARCH.

CHEATING.—Gumianchund Amerchund applied to His Worship for a warrant against one Moorlidhur Mathooradass on a charge of cheating.

Three or four months ago, the deponent pledged certain gold ornaments, belonging to one Sobhagchund Bhoychund, with a woman named Settaneebaee, and obtained from her an advance of Rs. 5,000. About a fortnight ago, deponent went with Rs. 1,000 to the woman to redeem some of the ornaments. At her request, he went to call her mehta, who had the ornaments in his charge. The mehta said he was sick and asked what ornaments were required; and the deponent, at his request, handed to him the thousand rupees. The mehta then handed the money to one Cursondas Bhutt, with orders to take it to Settaneebaee and bring from her the ornament which deponent wanted. The latter waited there about an hour and then went home to take his meals, after which he went again to the mehta's house, but could find neither the mehta nor Cursondass. On the third day, deponent found the former at his house, and he promised to bring the ornaments in two hours, but did not do so and since then abscondod from Bombay.

His Worship, on an information to the above effect being sworn to, granted a warrant as applied for.

MAZAGON POLICE COURT.—23RD MARCH.

(BEFORE R. H. SHOWELL, ESQ.)

ATTEMPTING TO DEFRAUD THE RAILWAY COMPANY.—Culliandass Goollabrai, was charged with attempting to defraud the B. B. and C. I. Railway Company, by riding in a railway carriage of a higher class than that for which he paid his fare.

Dossabhoy Hormusjee, station master at Mahim, in the employ of the Company stated, that on Friday last he received a telegram from Bombay to check the passenger train by examining all tickets and passes. The first train that arrived after this was the passenger train from Surat, which arrived at five minutes to 6 P. M. In checking the train the station master found the prisoner in a second class compartment. He asked him to produce his ticket, when he said that he had no ticket with him, but his master had. On asking his master who was also a passenger, he produced a ticket for himself. He thereupon ordered a peon to take him in charge. On his being taken in charge the prisoner produced a third class ticket from Surat to Bombay. He then offered to pay double fare, which the station master refused.

The peon corroborated in material points the testimony of the last witness.

His Worship adjudged the prisoner guilty, and fined him ten rupees.

LAW.

HIGH COURT.—ORIGINAL JURISDICTION.

Thursday, 21st March, 1867.

(BEFORE THE HON'BLE SIR JOSEPH ARNOULD.)

Canjee Purbhut & Co. vs Lalljee Mowjee,

(1). This was a suit on a 'ready goods' cotton contract, dated 19th January 1865, for 51 candies of 'New Oomrawuttee Akote' at Rs. 473-4 per candy.

The plaint alleged that the defendant examined and took delivery of 15 candies, 647½ lbs. and paid in respect thereof Rs. 7,000, which was Rs. 227 odd, less than the contract price for the said quantity: it then went on to aver that the defendant refused to take delivery of the residue, viz, 35 candies, 178 lbs. which quantity, accordingly, after due notice, the plaintiffs caused to be sold by auction on the defendant's account and risk. The plaint then claimed as damages the difference between the contract price, and the auction sale price, of the quantity thus sold; which, after giving the defendant credit for the Rs. 7,000 paid by him, in respect of that portion of the cotton of which he took delivery, is, omitting annas and pies, Rs. 7,507.

(2.) The defendant paid into, and the plaintiffs took out of, Court, the sum of Rs. 227 admitted to be still due by defendant to plaintiffs in respect of the cotton of which he had actually taken delivery under the contract; but, as to the residue of the plaintiffs' claim the defendant, by his written statement set up the case, that though he was always ready and willing to take, and often applied for, delivery of the residue of the cotton under the contract, yet the plaintiffs were not ready and willing to deliver the same.

(3). The sole issue raised was whether the plaintiffs were ready and willing to deliver cotton according to the terms of their contract.

(4). It appeared at the trial that Inderjee Narronjee, the real defendant in the case, was in January and February 1865 acting as muccadum, and a Mr. Hall was acting as cotton selector, for the European house of Burstall and Co. who were then in the market as purchasers of New "Oomrawuttee Akote" for shipment to England, to the extent of more than 800 candies. With the plaintiffs Burstall and Co. had two contracts for "New Oomrawuttee Akote"—one, of the 13th January 1865, for 51 candies at Rs. 462 per candy; the other of the 15th February 1865, for 101 candies at Rs. 410 per candy.

Under their contract of the 13th January, Burstall and Co. took delivery of 202 dokras on the 26th January and of the residue—100 dokras—(the 302 dokras making up the 51 candies deliverable under that contract) on the 28th January.

These were the days on which delivery was taken; selection had, of course, preceded delivery, and it appears, I think, clear from the whole of the evidence in the case, that selection of cotton under Burstall and Co.'s contract of the 13th January, must have been going on from about the 20th to, say the 28th, of January.

As already stated Inderjee Narronjee at this time was muccadum, and Mr. Hall was cotton selector, of Burstall and Co., a circumstance which has introduced an additional element of difficulty into the determination of this case—the difficulty viz., of distinguishing between selections made by Hall at the plaintiffs' depot under Burstall and Co.'s contract of the 13th January, and selections made by Hall at the same depot under defendant's contract of the 19th January;—the confusion and perplexity being further increased by the circumstance (which the plantiffs admit)—that the defendant, as muccadum for Burstall and Co., always attended Hall when he (Hall) went to select for Burstall and Co., under their contract of the 13th January; and was always attended by Hall (so at least the defendant affirms though the plaintiffs' deny) when he (the defendant) went to select on his (the defendant's) own account under his contract of the 19th January.

(5). The defendant's case is this: that on the 20th January—the day after the date of the contract—he went to the plaintiffs depot with Hall and a native broker Welljee Jaitha (No. X)—the reason of whose attendance is not very satisfactorily accounted for on the evidence—being rested on one ground by the defendant, and on other and different grounds by the witness himself. On that occasion out of 150 dokras, which was all the Oomrawuttee Akote then shown them, Hall selected for defendant, 80 or 90 dokras, making about 14 candies. On the next day, the 21st January, they went again, and out of a lot of 75 or 80 dokras, which were all that were shown that day, 8 or 9 dokras, making about a candy and a quarter more, were selected.

On the evening of the 21st they again went, then on the 22nd, and again on the morning of 25th January; on neither of which occasions was any cotton shown them from which selection could be made.

On this last occasion, the morning of the 25th January the defendant got written and served the notice of that date (Exhibit B.) to the effect that if, on his (the defendant's) attending at the depot of the plaintiffs at 3 P. M. that day, cotton from which he could select was not shown him, he (the defendant) would cancel the contract. Accordingly at 3 P. M. that same day, (the 25th) defendant, Hall and Welljee Jaitha attended at the depot of the plaintiffs. Two of the plaintiffs' witnesses No. I. and No. II., were there: cotton was shown, but only inferior cotton, not of the contract description or quality—none which Hall would select. "Then," says the defendant, "I told the plaintiffs that as I had been going so many days and got no cotton shown me, I would cancel the contract."

The defendant swears that he, thereupon, at once left the depot of the plaintiffs, and never went there again to select cotton, on his own account, under the contract of the 19th January. He admits, however, that he did (as, moreover, the Exhibits D. and E. put in by the plaintiffs clearly prove)—go to the depot of the plaintiffs on the 27th January, when he weighed and took delivery of 42 of the dokras he had previously selected, and again on the 2nd February when he weighed and took delivery of the remaining 56 dokras, these two lots amounting in all to 15 candies, 647½ lbs., for which he shortly after delivery paid Rs. 7,000 on account (viz. Rs. 6,000 on the 3rd February and Rs. 1,000 on the 14th February), and in respect of which he has, since the suit was filed, paid into Court Rs. 227 odd, which the plaintiffs have taken out.

(6). The case made by the plaintiffs is shortly this: that on the 19th January at the time this contract was made, they had in their depot at Colaba at least 100 candies of "New Oomrawuttee Akote," that fresh supplies of "New Oomrawuttee Akote" were, in the latter part of January and the early part of February 1865, frequently arriving at their depot by the Railway; and that there never was a time between the making of the contract and the auction sale, at which the defendant might not, if he had so chosen, have selected 51 candies of New Oomrawuttee Akote from the supply in their depot. The plaintiffs admit having received the defendant's notice of the 25th January, but they entirely deny that before that day, the defendant had ever attended their depot to select cotton, on his own account, under the contract of the 19th January; they say that before that day he had only attended there as the muccadum of Burstall and Co., in company with Hall, Burstall & Co.'s selector, in order to select cotton for Burstall & Co., under that firm's contract of the 13th January.

They assert positively that the first day on which the defendant ever came to their depot to select cotton on his own account, under his own contract, was the 26th January, the day after the service of his notice; that on that day he selected 42 dokras, that on the 27th of January (as the defendant admits and the plaintiffs' entries prove) he took delivery of 42 dokras—which the plaintiffs' swear he had selected the day before; that the defendant next came to select, on his own account, on the morning of the 2nd February, on which day they say he selected 56 dokras and on which day (as he admits and plaintiffs' entry proves) he actually took delivery of 56 dokras.

The case of the plaintiffs further is; that on the morning of the 2nd February, the defendant promised to come again in the course of that afternoon to complete the selection; and that, as he did not do so, and moreover, as, when again pressed to do so on the morning of the 3rd February, he then told them that he did not mean to come again to select, without assigning any reason for such his refusal, they (the plaintiffs) caused their attornies to send him the written notice of the 3rd February (Exhibit C).; that from and after this time they on various occasions, verbally pressed defendant to come and complete his selection; and that he, from time to time put them off with evasive answers and finally never came again to select, though they were always ready and willing to have shown him cotton answering his contract, if he had come.

(7). In dealing with two sets of statements so utterly irreconcileable, neither of which, as far as the mere quality and weight of the oral testimony is concerned, is entitled to much more credence than the other (for the plaintiffs' witnesses, though more numerous, were not at all more reliable than the defendant's)—the only mode of testing their relative truth or falsehood is by endeavouring to ascertain which best agrees with such contemporary documents as have been adduced, and with the general probabilities of the case arising out of the state of prices in the cotton market, and the greater or less extent of the supply of 'New Omrawuttee Akote' in Bombay during the latter of part of January and the former part of February 1865.

(8). The first cotemporary document in order of date is the defendant's notice of the 25th January 1865: it runs thus: "You (plaintiffs) contracted on the 19th January to deliver me (defendant) 51 candies New Omrawuttee Akote cotton, but up to this time we have not received any, though we were at your depot with our cotton selector many times. We now give you notice that unless the same be delivered to me by 3 P. M. this afternoon we will cancel the same" This notice, it appears, was written for the defendant by a Parase clerk in Burstall and Co's office; but even after making all due allowance for that circumstance it is hardly the sort of notice to be expected if the case made by the defendant at the trial were true.

The defendant's case as we have seen, is that on the 20th and 21st January, he had actually selected about 15¼ candies of cotton under his contract, of which he might have had delivery when he pleased. The notice, to say the least of it, seems not adapted to this state of things, but rather to a case in which up to date, no cotton at all had been shown or selected under defendant's contract.

If, indeed, the defendant by this time had become desirous of throwing up his contract this is very much the sort of notice he might have got written, relying upon his being afterwards able to make out that certain fruitless attendances of his with Hall, between the 20th and 25th January, at plaintiffs' depot, on account of Burstall and Co., under that firm's contract of the 13th, were in fact attendances on his (the defendant's) own account under his own contract of the 19th.

On the other hand, the temptation to throw up the contract arising out of the then state of prices in the cotton market was but slight.

The contract price (on the 19th January) was Rs. 473¼
On the 20th January the price was 475
On the 21st January 470
On the 25th January 470
on the 2nd Feb. it had fallen to Rs. 460;
on the 9th February to ,, 448;
on the 15th February to ,, 410½;
and from the latter day it went on rapidly declining till, on the 30th of March, when the auction sale took place, it had fallen to Rs. 261.

Defendants' contract price 473¼ was a high price,—a top price—only reached (and passed) on one day subsequent to that on which the contract was effected; still on the 25th January, the day on which the notice was written, the price had not fallen below 470; a fall of only Rs. 3¼—not, one would suppose, sufficient to give the defendant on that account alone, any strong inducement for wishing to get rid of the contract.

The next of the cotemporary documents in point of date is Hall's memorandum, dated the 1st of February 1865, and annexed as an exhibit to Hall's evidence returned under the commission executed at Liverpool on the 19th October 1866.

That memorandum is in the following terms:—"At the request of Lalljee Mowjee I attended with him at the depot of Canjee Purbhut on 20th January last, to select some Oomrawuttee Akote cotton which was contracted by the said Canjee Purbhut to deliver to the said Lalljee Mowjee and there selected some cotton; the other 2 or 3 days I used to go to the depot of Canjee Purbhut for some more cotton, but as there was no good cotton for selection so I returned. Again I returned on 25th January for same purpose, but returned again." This document, as it stands, is inconsistent with the case now made by defendant in this respect; that whereas defendant now says the cotton was selected principally indeed on the 20th, but also partly on the 21st, Hall in his memorandum states that all the cotton selected was selected on the 20th.

Hall's evidence before the Commission (on the 19th October 1866), after having refreshed his recollection by reference to this memorandum was to the same effect as to this point, he stating distinctly (at p. 3 of the examination, answers to questions Nos. 12, 13, and 14) that, though between the 20th and 25th of January he went several times for defendant to plaintiffs' depot, yet he found no cotton, he could select except on the 20th. Hall adds (answer to question No. 11) that on that, the only day of selection, he selected about 11 candies, whereas the defendant's case is, and the evidence shows, that the total selection was of 15 candies and 647 lbs.

Hall's evidence indeed as taken before the Commission shows either that very little reliance can be placed on the accuracy of his recollection, or else that very little reliance can be placed on the truthfulness of his testimony. When he swears (from p. 5 to 7) in answer to question No. 18, in cross-examination, that he cannot remember whether defendant was then, or, in answer to question 19, that defendant was ever, in the service of Burstall and Co., it is difficult to suppose that Hall was giving his evidence truthfully. Again, when he says, in answer to question No. 20, that he does not remember whether Burstall and Co. agreed to purchase Omrawuttee Akote from plaintiffs; and, in answer to question No 36 that he cannot remember whether on behalf of Burstall & Co. he did or did not examine, select and take delivery from plaintiffs' depot of a large quantity of Oomrawuttee Akote—(whereas the evidence in the case most clearly proves that he did) it is not easy to avoid the conclusion that he is evading a direct and truthful answer to questions, the drift of which he plainly perceives.

When on the 1st of February this unsatisfactory and unreliable witness furnished defendant with the memorandum of that date—the state of the cotton market was such that defendant might well wish to be off his bargain. On the next day, the 2nd February, the price had fallen from Rs. 470, at which it stood on the 25th January, to Rs. 460; no quotation was given for the 1st February, but in the absence of any evidence of a sudden fall on the 2nd, it may reasonably be presumed that the price on the 1st, was not very different from the price on the 2nd.

The very nature of the memorandum is remarkable: it is very much the sort of document a man might get up, in order to free himself from the obligation of a contract—hardly, as it strikes me, for any other purpose. If, indeed, the date of the document—the 1st of February—be correct, and there is nothing to show that it is not correct, it seems undoubtedly inconsistent with one part of the case made by the plaintiffs—with that part of their case, viz., in which the plaintiffs state that on the 2nd February the defendant not only took delivery of cotton (which he admits, and which it is clear, he did), but also selected cotton. It seems, to say the least of it, very improbable that, if on the 1st of February he had provided himself with such a document as Hall's memorandum, he should have gone the next day to select additional cotton under the contract which it must have been the object of this memorandum to show he was then justified in repudiating. It appears to me, on the probabilities of the case, that the plaintiffs must be in error when they state that so late as the 2nd February defendant not only took delivery of, (which it is clear he did) but also selected, cotton.

Still that is part of the case the plaintiffs set up, not only in their oral testimony, but in the last of the cotemporary documents to which it will be necessary to advert, viz., their lawyer's notice of the 3rd February 1865 (Exhibit C.) which runs thus: "We are instructed by our clients Canjee Purbhut & Co. that on the 19th January last you agreed to purchase from them 51 candies of Oomrawuttee Akote cotton ready goods, and that you selected and took delivery of 42 dokras on the 27th January and of 56 dokras on the 2nd instant (sic) and that you have neglected to examine and take delivery of the remainder, &c."

This notice, though as already observed, it is opposed to what seems to be the probabilities of the case, so far as it relates to the selection on the 2nd February, substantially agrees with the case made by the plaintiffs in their oral testimony; it is confirmed by plaintiffs' entries and defendant's admissions as to the dates of delivery; and the reason given for its being sent as, and when, it was, is the sufficient and intelligible reason that on the morning of the 3rd February, the defendant, when pressed by the plaintiffs, to come and complete his selection, had distinctly refused to do so, assigning no reason for his refusal.

On the whole, the conclusion at which I arrive from comparing the cotemporary documents with the oral testimony, is in favour of the bona fides of the case set up by the plaintiffs, and against the bona fides of the case set up by the defendants.

(9). The inference fairly derivable from the whole of the evidence, both as to the supply of Oomrawuttee Akote at the plaintiffs' depot in the latter end of January and the early part of February 1865; and also as to the prices of Oomrawuttee Akote in the Bombay market for the same period, leads to the same conclusion; and upon the whole case, after attentively considering it in all its bearings, my judgment is that the plaintiffs were reasonably ready and willing to deliver, and that the defendant was not reasonably ready and willing to accept, cotton under this contract of the 19th January 1865. This conclusion upon the facts renders it unnecessary to go, into the question of law, as to which I express no opinion, viz: whether the defendant, under an entire contract, like that sued on, can rely on an alleged rescinding of the contract, when he admits that after the day of such alleged rescinding, he took delivery of part of the goods under the contract and paid for them at the contract price.

(10). On the whole matter I record a finding, upon the sole issue raised, in favour of the plaintiffs; and pass a decree for the plaintiffs for Rs. 7,280 (i. e. the amount of their claim Rs. 7,507, less Rs. 227, the sum paid into, and taken out of, Court.)

With regard to costs, the plaintiffs will be entitled to all costs of suit, including their share of the costs of the Commission to Liverpool issued under the order of 13th August 1866: they are also entitled to interest on the amount of the judgment at 6 per cent till payment.

Mr. Pigot and Mr. Green, (instructed by Messrs. Kelly and Hore), appeared for the plaintiffs.

Mr. Mayhew and Mr. McCulloch (instructed by Messrs. Dallas, Lynch and Langdale) for the defendant.

AMROLEE RAILWAY CRICKET CLUB.

The annual fete was held here on Wednesday last, in commemoration of the winding up of the cricketing season.

The day's amusements commenced with a cricket match, the married versus the single, one inning each, as will be seen from the score the married were victorious for the first time.

A pigeon match followed, the sides being chosen from residents and visitors. The residents were victorious by one bird.

The following races were then run:—

At 5 o'clock all sat down to dinner on the grounds under the splendid Banian tree. Amongst the number who graced the festival were the Rev. J. H. Hughes, Dr. Ross, Dr. Shaw, E. Cameron, Esq., and a very large attendance of ladies.

After the health of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen had been drunk and a toast devoted to the ladies, the Amrolee Railway Cricket Club was proposed and received with great enthusiasm. The secretary replied and proposed the health of the Surat Club, which was also duly responded to.

By the kind permission of the Colonel and officers of H. M. 2nd Grenadier Regiment, their band was in attendance, and played some favourite airs during dinner. During the evening the Amrolee coloured harmonists made their appearance on a highly ornamented and elevated stage erected in the trunk of the tree representing a slaveowner's log hut. A selection of songs was sung from Christy's Minstrelsy. Mr. S. Wright giving a splendid solo on the clarionet accompanied by his son on the piano. The entertainment wound up with a very laughable farce. "The Plantation Walk Round." Great praise is due to Mr. J. Miles for the proficient manner in which his company went through their parts.

At 8 P. M. the open-air amusements concluded and the day's fete terminated with a ball in the reading room of the Amrolee Mechanics' Institution which was much enjoyed by all.

Everything went off with great harmony, and good humour, and the day will long be remembered as a day well and pleasantly spent.

The following is the score of the cricket match:—

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE NEW LICENSE TAX.

[To the Editor of the Bombay Gazette.]

SIR,—The propositions, amendments and counter-amendments, anent the new so-called License tax appear so contradictory that it is difficult for one to ascertain what is the precise amount to be exacted. For instance, it would appear from one of Mr. Cowie's amendments to Mr. Massey's measure that the class which has an income of Rs. 10,000 to 25,000 a year should pay Rs. 500 a year instead of Rs. 200. On the other hand, I infer from the Calcutta telegram of 8th instant that it is the maximum amount paid by the highest of the five classes only that is to be increased from Rs. 200 to Rs. 500 per mensem.

There can be but one opinion of this scheme of Mr. Massey's and that is that the operation of the tax will be most unequal, and that the whole scheme is iniquitous and unjust

Were Bombay a Garden of Eden and rupees as readily acquired as in the halcyon days of our former prosperity, there might be some reason for a tax being levied upon the European sojourners in the gorgeous East. But when allotees of other days are now become contributories and impecuriosity is the prevailing feature of our tight little island, it surely did not require the addition of this other straw to the camel's back.

If the opponents of the income tax at home have been successful, surely a little agitation is all that is necessary to have this measure consigned to oblivion, and, again, if posterity are to realize the benefit of the irrigation schemes for which these taxes are now to be levied, and if the other measures of the Public Works Department are also to result in a vast increase of prosperity to India, surely it is not too much to expect that posterity should bear a much larger share of the burden than is now proposed by the Indian Government. VOX POPULI.

Bombay, 22nd March.

[The statement in the telegram was incorrect. The schedule which we published last week was copied from the Act as it appears in the Gazette of India, and may therefore be fully relied upon.—ED. B. G.]

INDIAN NEWS-LETTER.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

SHOLAPORE, 20TH MARCH.

The hot weather is fast approaching and the afternoon heat is daily becoming more unbearable. I trust that our energetic town commissioners are fully alive to this not very delightful fact, the sanitary arrangements meeting close investigation and watchfulness before the sickly season sets in. With the ample annual revenue of the Municipality (some Rs. 30,000 I believe) greater attention should be given to a more adequate supply of pure and wholesome water. Dr. Leith in his able report on the sanitary condition of the town of Sholapore inspected in the month of January 1865, says that at the census of 1851, there were found to be eight-six wells available for the people but that only forty-two of them gave drinkable water for part of the year. In the same report the number of inhabitants being given at 30,000, it will be seen that only one well is available for every 714 people! The Municipality has done much already in carrying out several improvements, but it appears to me that their funds could not be more judiciously laid out than in introducing a better supply of water.

I wonder that none of the European tradesmen in Bombay have thought of opening out at this station a "general merchant's" shop. It is an experiment well worth trying. At present we are entirely at the mercy of a few rapacious Parsees and natives in the bazaar who palm off old and worthless stores at over 25 per cent. on Bombay prices. It is an admitted fact also that furniture is very scarce and I do not hesitate to say that it would well repay anyone to bring up second-hand furniture from Bombay. The military portion of our community and others prefer in many instances to hire necessary articles of furniture by the month, but they have to pay uncommonly dear for "their whistle." The small shop-keepers who thus accommodate people are not satisfied without a profit of 10 per cent. a month on the value of their property and they also take good care to put their own price on the articles they let out. What would you think for instance of being charged one rupee a month each for a toilette table, and wash hand stand of the value respectively of rupees ten, but this is what many of us have to submit to. Let some of your enterprising Bombay tradesmen come up, they will have no opposition, and by fair dealing, charging remunerative prices for good articles, they will speedily gain an extensive connection.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Sore Throats, Diptheria, and Bronchitis.—These medicaments boldly face the evils they profess to remedy: local relief and general purification progress together—the diseased portion is cured, the foul whole is cleansed. Holloway's Ointment, rubbed on the throat and chest, exercises the most beneficial influence over sore throats, diptheria, and cough, whether resulting from catarrh, asthma or bronchitis. This unguent acts miraculously in arresting the extension of sores, healing ulcerations, curing skin diseases and completely stopping all destructive inflammation, irrespective of its exciting cause, character, situation, duration, or severity. Holloway's Ointment, aided by his Pills, gives most immediate and most marked relief to those irritating itchings and painful swellings of the skins occasioned by mercury or latent syphilitic virus.
